But that does not mean that individuality should be destroyed and the individual become a mere tool of the community, like a bee or an ant.

Sometimes one sees in the school simply the instrument for transferring ascertain maximum quantity of knowledge to the growing generation. ( ① ) But that is not right. Knowledge is dead; the school, however, serves the living. ( ② ) It should develop in the young individuals those qualities and capabilities which are of value for the welfare of the common-wealth. ( ③ ) For a community of standardized individuals without personal originality and personal aims would be a poor community without possibilities for development. ( ④ ) On the contrary, the aim must be the training of independently acting and thinking individuals, who, however, see in the service of the community their highest life problem. ( ⑤ ) As far as I can judge, the English school system comes nearest to the realization of this ideal.
